TELLS TAXPAYERS HOW TO LOWER THE GOVERNMENT COSTS

Join Right Type of Taxpayers' Association, Is Advice Given

BY R. D. DRIPPS

Executive Secretary of Penna. Economic Council Speaks At Doylestown

DOYLESTOWN, May 24.—"If the taxpayer is to accomplish anything in the way of bringing down the cost of government which will mean decreased taxes, it is absolutely necessary that he join the right type of taxpayer's association."

That was the declaration of an expert who knows what he is talking about—Robert D. Driggs, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania Economic Council, Inc., a former Director of Public Safety of Philadelphia under the late Mayor Blankenburg.

Mr. Driggs, who was one time floor leader of Philadelphia City Council, was the guest speaker last night at the weekly dinner meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Doylestown, at the Fountain House. The association that he represents has made a large number of financial researches of counties, cities, boroughs and townships in Pennsylvania.

"What Shall The Taxpayer Do?" was the subject of Mr. Driggs' very interesting talk.

First of all, the speaker started out by declaring that he had no time for the organizations that go around condemning office-holders, or for the ballyhoo artists, or for the group that gets out petitions or write to the newspapers and voice complaints

St. Ann's Athletic Ass'n To Be Tendered Outing

Members of St. Ann's Athletic Association will soon be tendered the second annual sports picnic. The outing will especially be in celebration of the great success in sports activities in the past year. No definite date has been fixed as yet, but it is deduced that it will occur on a holiday in the latter part of June.

St. Ann's A. A. was organized in 1932, solely for the purposes of sport activities. In the past year the members have greatly excelled in the realm of major sports in Bristol, and have acquired, as a result, a worthy regard from hundreds of sport followers throughout this and adjacent communities.

The St. Ann's club has a capable and efficient array of officers, namely: Patsy Moffo, president; James Spinelli, vice-president; Louis Nicol, secretary; John Straffe, financial secretary; and Louis Conti, treasurer. These men have always been a persistent aid to the club and much credit is due them.

The finance committee of the organization is also a potent and active agency. It consists of the following: Charles Manze, Frank Conti, Joseph Missera, Gene Spadacino, Lazerio Rocco, Angelo Nicol, James Spinelli, Ralph Palermo, Joseph Spezzano and Daniel Greco. Much responsibility rests upon this faculty, and much fine work has emanated from them. They deserve much praise as virtually the backbone of the organization.

The year 1933 has been the most glorious year for St. Ann's in athletic accomplishments.

In baseball St. Ann's have made a splendid showing by winning the Twilight Baseball championship. For years the Italian boys have striven ardently to assemble a winning nine, and eventually their aim was realized when they came through and clinched the Twilight title in elegant style last season.

In football they also assembled a mighty formidable team. A team was pitted against appalling opposition. They have won. They have permeated the season unvanquished. No opposing eleven had crossed the St. Ann's goal line. In the banner game with Doylestown, St. Ann's became the first athletic contingent to ever defeat a Doylestown team in Bristol. As a result of defeating Doylestown, the St. Ann's football team clinched the much coveted title of "Bucks County Football Champions."

In basketball, although unsuccessful, they proved to be a formidable bulwark in the local organized league. Being inevitably unsuccessful was obviously due to the fact that it was the first year in basketball, and also partly due to some unavoidable incidents. Nevertheless, they have displayed a vigorous never-to-be subdued spirit, which won the manifest admiration of hundreds of basketball fans. No one can doubt or deny that St. Ann's have been a tremendously aiding factor in attracting huge crowds to the basketball hall, and an essential agent to the success of the league.

Such has been the proud display of athletic aggressiveness by St. Ann's A. A. in the past year. This season it has practically the same aggregations as last season and is ardently hopeful of repeating last year's achievements.

TO MAKE SURVEY FOR CROYDON STREET LIGHTS

Meeting of Residents to Discuss Matter is Largely Attended

NAME A COMMITTEE

CROYDON, May 24.—Many residents of this village gathered in the fire station, last evening, to discuss the matter of again securing street lights for Croydon. Supervisors of the township, as well as property holders entered into the discussion, with Mrs. Harry Frederick presiding. R. Hoot, Philadelphia, representative of the Philadelphia Electric Company, was present to answer questions about expense and give advice.

The street lights were discontinued in January, owing to non-payment for current. Since May 1st liens have been placed again properties in cases of delinquencies.

A committee composed of L. Morgan, Walter Miller and Mr. Hoot, was named by Mrs. Frederick, last evening, this committee to make a survey of Croydon proper, and select sites where lights should be placed. Later property holders will be visited and advised as to the costs of maintenance, and each will be taxed equally.

The lights will be replaced if two-thirds of the property owners agree.

OPINIONS OF DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE ARE FINAL, SUBJECT TO THE RULING OF COURTS; IS LEGAL ADVISER OF ALL DEPT'S OF STATE GOVERNMENT

Also Represents Commonwealth in Any Court Litigations

HAS MANY FUNCTIONS

Attorney General and Assistants Act for Governor in Preparing Legislation

Note:—This is the sixth of a series of "Know Your State Government" articles written for the Courier by International News Service.

By G. Everett Doying

(Copyright, 1934, by I. N. S.)

HARRISBURG, May 24.—(INS).—The Attorney General's department, more commonly known as the Department of Justice, is the legal adviser of all the departments of the state government and its opinions are final, subject to a contrary ruling of the courts.

All questions involving interpretation of the laws of the state are referred to the department for an opinion. Its determinations provide a "yardstick" for procedure which stands until, or if, a court test is made and results in a new verdict.

The department also represents the Commonwealth, or any of its agents, in any litigation in the courts in which they are directly or by intervention a party. With gubernatorial approval, the department investigates any alleged violations of the laws of the state and takes steps to enforce the statute provisions. Approval of the department is required on all operations of the state government which normally need the advice of an attorney.

In addition to functioning as legal advisor, the Attorney General and his assistants usually act for the Governor and his administration in preparing legislation for the general assembly which the executive wishes to have passed.

This function, during a legislative session, is perhaps the most compelling of all the work of the department. More often than not, the Attorney General advises also with legislative leaders on measures sponsored by the administration, acting as the "diplomatic ambassador" of the Governor with the Legislature.

Non-administrative legislation frequently comes to the Attorney General's attention during its course through the Legislature for a determination of its legality and construction.

MORRISVILLE COUNCIL STUDIES WATER PLAN

May Obtain Supply From Several Artesian Wells

COST BEING FIGURED

MORRISVILLE, May 24.—Borough council is still confronted with the difficult problem of furnishing an adequate water supply of a character which will meet with the approval of State health authorities.

At an adjourned meeting the subject was explained by E. J. Lewis, a Camden engineer, who will present his proposition to Common Council at its next meeting. The borough fathers will then decide whether to have a test made to learn whether the quality and quantity of water can be procured from underground.

Lewis said that he had made a preliminary investigation and that if water is procured from the ground the wells will have to be driven in the southern section of the borough near the gravel pit area. There is not enough water for the borough's needs in the rocks in the northern section.

It was pointed out that the supply will have to yield a million gallons a day. Lewis said in the southern section conditions are favorable and if the wells are dug a large water main would have to be laid from the source of supply to the distribution system at the present water works.

Three or four tests must be made before it can be ascertained whether the quality and quantity of water can be procured. This cost is estimated at $1,500. Cost of installing the artesian system, if the change is made, is estimated at $18,000 to $20,000. There would be two units and the diameter of the casings would run from 16 inches to 26 inches. A small building 12 by 12 feet would be erected over each unit.

Common Council is faced with the question of improving the water system or getting a new supply. The State Board of Health had ordered the borough to make drastic changes at the filtration plant whereby a better supply of water may be had. The cost of this change has been estimated from $50,000 to $80,000. It is the purpose of the councilmen to eliminate the present filtration system if the artesian water can be had at a lower cost.

The plan to have Falls and Lower Makefield Townships pay Morrisville a fixed sum each year for the fire protection the local department gives to those sections, had the attention of the board. It was voted to notify the supervisors of these districts to meet with Common Council in the Borough Hall here on Friday night, June 8, for the purpose of entering into a contract for furnishing fire protection to the respective districts. If the supervisors fail to attend, Council will likely order firemen not to answer alarms in the districts in question.

Council at a meeting some months ago voted to charge Falls Township $1,000 per year and Lower Makefield Township $400 a year for fire protection but to date neither township has entered into any contract. The borough did receive a notice informing the officials when the Falls Township directors hold their next meeting and asking that representatives be present. Since the townships want the service and Morrisville Borough is furnishing it, local officials felt that it is up to the township supervisors to come to the Council meeting here if they wish to discuss anything relating to the subject.

Morrisville maintains its fire department with a one and a half mill levy on all taxable property and statistics show that 90 per cent of the fire calls are out of the borough and taxpayers of Morrisville were paying the entire cost.

MAY PROBE A. T. & T. CO.

Washington, D. C., May 24.—The Senate Interstate Commerce Committee today prepared to decide whether a searchlight will be directed into the affairs of the largest power utility of the world. Senator Garr, Democrat of Washington, long time foe of utility monopoly, sought a committee decision on his resolution authorizing a Senate inquiry of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company which operates the world's biggest telephone and telegraph service.

As the committee began its session there was evidence of American T. & T. pressure to prevent the inquiry. Senator Garr said. "The company representatives have attacked a number of members of the committee and they even sent men to work on me." Garr asserted. His resolution would direct the committee, or any duly authorized sub-committee, to conduct the inquiry and to report to the Senate the facts ascertained with recommendations for such legislation as the committee deems desirable. A maximum appropriation of $25,000 would finance the investigation.

OFF IN CRIPPLED PLANE

Port Talbot, Wales, May 24.—Flying a crippled plane, the engine of which sputtered and knocked as it rose from the ground, George R. Pond and Cesar Sabelli, American trans-Atlantic fliers, took off from here today for Cardiff. Earlier the fliers had been forced down on the beach by engine trouble after taking off from Baldonnel Field, Dublin, in attempting a flight to Rome. Pond and Sabelli will land at Cardiff to make repairs to their plane. The engine of the plane, which had developed the same engine trouble that almost brought on a disaster in the flight from New York to Lahenah on the coast of the Irish Free State where Pond and Sabelli were forced down more than a week ago, belched black fumes as it took off here. Faulty oil pumps were responsible for the engine trouble. Although working badly Pond believed the temporary repairs made here will enable them to reach Cardiff safely. Several days may be required to complete the necessary repairs at Cardiff.

CORNWELLS, May 24.—Howard Black hurled his second one-hit game of the season here last night as the Hulmeville A. A. took undisputed possession of first place by trimming the Cornwells A. A. team, 4-1.

The only hit made off Black came in the first inning when the batter, George Riemer, doubled to left. From then on, Black was master of the situation until the last inning. With one out, Black received a wild spell and walked two batters. "Pete" Devlin then went in to throw them up for the Hulmeville team and he retired the side by fanning the next two batters.

The run scored by the Cornwells team was the result of errors made by the winners.

TO TRY PERKASIE WOMEN IN COURT ABOUT JUNE 1

Lansdale Waiter Entered Plea of Guilty in the Same Case

GRAND JURY FINISHED

DOYLESTOWN, May 24.—Myer Carp, of Montgomeryville, employed in a Lansdale restaurant until recently, entered a plea of guilty in criminal court on Tuesday on a charge of abortion followed by death.

No testimony was taken in the case, the plea being entered so that he could testify before the Grand Jury in the case of Anna Herbein, Perkassie beauty parlor operator, also charged with abortion followed by death, and against whom the Grand Jury returned a true bill. The case of the Herbein woman is listed for trial before a jury on Friday, June 1. It was stated today that William A. Gray, noted criminal lawyer, has been retained by the defendant in this case.

Similar action was taken in the case of Joseph Volski, of Haycock township, who entered a plea of guilty without testimony being offered at this time, so that he could testify before the Grand Jury in the case of Jacob Surket, of Haycock township, both of whom were charged with firing a barn and arson. This case will be tried the first week of trial court, which opens next Monday, May 28.

In the case of William McCree, charged with larceny and receiving stolen goods, the Grand Jury ignored the bill and placed the costs on the prosecutor, Dominick Kay.

Judge Calvin S. Boyer heard testimony in the case of Harry P. Hewitt, of near Oxford Valley, charged with non-support of an indigent parent, his father, Jesse Hewitt, seventy-four. The Court ruled that Bucks county had no jurisdiction in the case because the elder Hewitt was a resident of Camden county.

The Grand Jury completed taking testimony in criminal cases and is inspecting the county buildings.

SEARCH FOR ABDUCTORS

Philadelphia, May 24.—Three youthful thugs who abducted a youth in his own automobile and threw him out of the car after robbing him, were the object of an intensive police search today. The victim, George Wood, 19, told police the men forced him out of the car in a swamp land and threatened him with death if he returned to the road. The thugs, Wood said, leaped into the car when he stopped for a traffic signal. They stole a ring and eye-glasses, but didn't get any money because Wood was "broke."

GUARDSMEN CHARGE STRIKERS

Toledo, Ohio, May 24.—Charging up Chambliss avenue with fixed bayonets, Ohio National Guardsmen today raised the 24-hour seige in Toledo Electric Auto-Lite Plant, driving before their gleaming blades, the remains of a striking crowd of 7000 which had tried all night with bullets and bricks to storm the plant and reach 1500 trapped employees. The soldiers arrived after sloshing determinedly through the cold rain. They met with no resistance. A rain drenched crowd of several hundred fled before the threatening bayonets. The 1500 trapped workers, 500 of them women, were removed from the factory and escorted out of the riot area by the troops. The soldiers in command of Major-General Ludwig Conelly, established a blockade around the plant and established barracks against the possibility of renewed rioting.

THE PATHFINDER

No man liveth unto himself alone. All need pathfinders. Newton, the scientist, said, "If I have achieved anything in science it is because I have stood on the shoulders of giants."

The young student takes it as a matter of course that he shall follow the old masters. If music, he sits at the feet of great guides—Bach, Beethoven, Chopin. If art, he works for hours before copies of the great masters—Raphael, Michaelangelo, Murillo. The student not only knows the value of the pathfinder, but is happy to acknowledge the debt he owes these immortals.

So it is in business. The man who forges to the front in industrial or commercial life is the man who is closely in touch with everything the leaders in his line are doing. Businessmen are not ashamed to follow the pathfinder.

The greater the man, the more frankly does he acknowledge his debt to men still greater than himself. Plato sat at the feet of Socrates, Aristotle at the feet of Plato. Raphael learned his art from Angelo, and Corregio from Raphael.

None but a fool feels himself to be self-sufficient. The best of men must acknowledge their masters. Few there are in the galaxy of world stars that shine by themselves without the added luster of borrowed glory.

It is not weakness to have a pathfinder, but rather a mark of good sense.

NEW OBSTACLE TO PEACE

Germany, according to French reports, has developed a new weapon of war and is making preparations for using it against France in case of a conflict with the latter.

The weapon is a rocket projectile capable of being propelled 125 miles and which explodes on contact with the ground or other object.

The reports have caused much concern in France where they are being "played up" by the French press. They go so far as to say that Germany is building a system of rocket bases near the French frontier, from which it would be possible to launch 50,000 tons of explosives in a single night. A terrifying picture of the havoc that might be wrought is drawn.

How much truth there may be in these reports cannot be determined now. The development of rocket projectiles, nevertheless, seems well within the range of possibility. Germany has shown ingenuity in devising weapons, and it would not be surprising if she may have something of this kind up her sleeve.

Whether or not these reports have any truth in them, they will serve to keep alive French suspicion and distrust of Germany. They will make France more determined to stay out of disarmament agreements, and thus hinder the work of those trying to promote world peace.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Beware of substitutes. Beware of cheap imitations. ©1931 C. M. Co.

Before either John Herbert or Diane could reply excitedly about her from across the creek announced the arrival of Jeff Todd and the men from the Lodge.

Ann Haskel turned to Diane. "This year creek comes from away up in the Big Pine Mountains and draws a bigger watershed than the others," she said, coldly. "Hit war in the Big Pine country that the heaviest rain fell. Hit'll be two or three days 'fore we can get your automobile."

She dismounted, and fastening the bridle reins to the horn of the saddle, signified with a commanding gesture that Diane was to mount.

The girl hesitated. "You ain't a-min' to stay hear, are you?" snapped Ann. "Git on. Billy ain't a-goin' to hurt you."

"But how will you cross?" Diane protested, as she climbed into the saddle.

"Billy an' me'll tend to that," the mountain woman returned, and slapped the horse lightly on his hip. "Don't you touch them reins. That boss knows more about this business than you ever will if you was to live to be a hundred."

Carefully the animal breasted the current and picked his way to the other bank, where Diane's excited friends assisted her to the ground.

Ann Haskel's voice rang out above the noise of the water. "Come hear, Billy." The big bay obediently recrossed the stream to his mistress.

When John Herbert and his mother were in the ferry over, Ann again produced her bottle and offered it to the young man. "Hear, son, you'd best take a nip. Hit'll do you good. You ain't lookin' so pearst."

"Son!" ejaculated Jeff Todd, who had been eyeing the stranger with ill-concealed disfavor. "Did she say 'son'?"

Ann whirled on him. "Shot on you!"

Once more she offered the bottle to John Herbert.

"No thank you, mother."

"Drink, I tell you," she commanded, savagely. "I ain't a wantin' you sick on my hands 'long with all the rest of 'it."

SYNOPSIS

Ann Haskel, taciturn, independent, mountain, rules the little village of Pine Knob in the Ozarks, with an iron hand. Though generally considered hard and unbending, Ann could also be extremely generous. A hard-working farmer herself, Ann disapproves of the useless life led by the wealthy vacationists at the Lodge. Among these, however, is one exception—Diane Carroll, lovely young artist, whose work means more to her than her wealth, yet Ann considers Diane's painting a waste of time. The latter, however, greatly admires the mountain woman who sacrificed her own happiness for her own future. Years before, following the death of her first husband, Ann had placed her boy, John Herbert, in the care of an old friend, Judge Shannon, so that he might be educated properly. She has not seen John Herbert since. In his place, she raised a ne'er-do-well stepson, Jeff Todd. Then, one day, John Herbert unexpectedly returns. Diane happens to be at the station when he arrives and offers the stranger a lift. They are trapped in the woods by heavy rains and forced to spend the night there. John Herbert confides in Diane that, although he studied law, his heart is in writing and he hopes his mother will not be disappointed. Thrown together as they are, a comradeship is formed such as Diane had never before experienced. Remembering certain activities Ann Haskel is supposed to be interested in, Diane questions John Herbert about his contempt for anyone who encourages bootlegging; not because he is opposed to liquor, but because he respects the law.

CHAPTER XIV.

She found herself wanting that this stubborn and eager young idealist should, above all, understand and appreciate his backwoods mother. The picture of his mother which the last of the Haskels carried in his heart, and which—deliberately or not—Judge Shannon had put into his life, Diane felt to be essentially true. But would he—could he—recognize the essential truth of the portrait in spite of the crude and ugly life under which the beauty of the mountain woman's character was hidden? Diane Carroll, by nature and from wide experience in life, was capable of appreciating the qualities of Ann Haskel as her son, fresh from school and obsessed with his idealistic dreams, might not be. As to how Ann Haskel would receive her son's views as he had just presented them, Diane dared not even try to think. Tactfully she sought to prepare him for the inevitable clash. With arguments and observation she tried to show him that sometimes people are finer than the things they do. Intolerance, she insisted, was the sin of sins. Misunderstandings were the real tragedies of life. She felt that she ought to tell him plainly about his mother, but she could not.

Some time during the night Diane fell into fitful sleep—now, for a moment, wide awake, now sinking into unconsciousness, now floating on that mystic sea which lies between the land of dreams and the continent of realities. Childhood imaginings, long forgotten, drifted out of nowhere into the dim haze of her half-submerged senses. A lonely little rich girl in the power of one who appeared, fantastically enough, in various guises—Aunt Jessica, a crabbed old art teacher, a brigand chief in Algiers, Ann Haskel. A place which seemed to be, all at the same time, a stately home in a walled park, a studio in Paris, a lodge overlooking a river, a wild mountain gorge, a cathedral, and a rocky cave in the heart of a dark forest. A companion who was her father and John Herbert and some one else—some one whom she had known even before she knew her father, and who had always been with her.

When these queer fantasies, which she knew all the time were only dreams, approached too close to possible realities, she would mentally shake herself into full, if drowsy, consciousness. "How absurd," she would think, watching her companion through half-closed eyes. And every time she thrilled to find that Ann Haskel's son came with her out of her dreams unchanged.

Once the young man arose and, moving softly so as not to awaken her, put more wood upon the fire. In the light of the leaping flame she studied his face. He was like her father, Bill Carroll, too, in his way, had been an idealist—a dreamer. And (her honesty forced the admission) he was like some one else—some one who, unnamed and unrealized in the flesh, had been her constant companion ever since she was old enough to know that she was a woman.

Again when she awoke she felt him standing over her. Pretending to be still asleep, she lay motionless. Then she felt him gently covering her with his coat. He stole softly away to stand before the fire, and again through half-closed eyes she watched him. Somewhere in the depth of the forest a fox barked. Her companion moved to the farther edge of the firelight circle and stood gazing into the darkness, listening, and she saw in his hand a formidable club which he had selected from the wood they had gathered. She smiled, and flushed with a sense of security and peace which, with all her independence, she had never before known.

The gray ghostly light of morning crept over the hill and down into the little valley. The nearby trees and bushes emerged from the vanishing night. A bird twittered a sleepy greeting and was answered by another and another until the voices of the woodland songsters swelled into a chorus of liquid music. Then came the sun to touch the leafy tops of the tallest trees with shimmering silvery light. The sky was clear, the air was drenched with the moist fragrance of the woods after the rain.

Of course the young woman scolded her companion for depriving himself of his coat in the chilly night, and blamed herself for sleeping while he stood guard. Of that he had not been cold and that he too had slept. And equally of course, she liked him the better for lying.

Hopefully they went back to the road and to the creek. The water was still too high for them to think of crossing.

The young man standing side by side at the water's edge where above the roar of the stream they heard a shout, and through the trees on the other side of the creek glimpsed a horse and rider. Another moment and the big bay with the blazing face appeared loping easily toward them.

"It's a woman!" John Herbert exclaimed. "Look! She's wearing a man's coat and hat. How funny!" Impulsively the girl put out her hand and touched his arm. She wanted to tell him—to prepare him. It was too cruel. But how could she? What could she say?

The bay horse paused an instant on the opposite bank, then, at a nudge from his rider's boot heel, plunged in. Breasting the swift brown current and feeling carefully for footing, the powerful animal worked his way across and emerged from the swirling flood to stand beside them.

From the back of her dripping horse Ann Haskel—grim, masterful, competent—scowled down at Diane and her companion.

Diane could not speak. She felt a wild impulse to run—to escape. Stealing a glance at the young man beside her, she saw him regarding this strange, uncouth backwoods woman with half-amused wonder.

Ignoring the stranger, Ann addressed Diane harshly and with more than a shade of contempt in her rough voice:

"I loved this war what you'd be. I knowed you wouldn't have no more sense than to git yourself ketchin' like this."

"We are awfully glad to see you," Diane managed to say, weakly.

"I reckon you air. I'd a' come after you yesterday evenin' fore dark if that old feller 'Pappy Gilead' had sense enough to 'a' let anybody come this way before his war too late. When you didn't git back to the Lodge by dark your friends come a-runnin' fer me. I went up to the store an' asked Pappy if he'd seen you pass. When he told me he'd seen you startin' down the hill, I knowed what had happened."

"I should have stayed at the station," murmured Diane, meekly. "Shucks! I knowed you wouldn't have sense enough for that. Them Lodge folks wanted to hunt you last night. But hit wouldn't 'a' been no use—dark an' a-rainin', an' every creek out of its banks. I wouldn't let 'em stir a foot 'cause I knowed if they did I'd have to find the whole worthless lot of 'em come this mornin'." I figured if you was on high ground nothin' could hurt you, an' if you'd been ketchin' tryin' to cross a creek hit war too late to save you. Soon as day broke I started out. Jeff an' I took 'em 'Lodge feller's are a-fallowin' with the mules an' wagon. They'll be 'long directly. They got a snack fer you to eat."

From the pocket of her coat the mountain woman produced a flat bottle. "Here, take a nip of this; hit'll warm your insides. You're sure a-needin' hit."

Diane drank and passed the bottle to John Herbert.

"What is it?" he asked, doubtfully.

"Hit's good cawn liker," rasped Ann.

He returned the bottle to Diane. "Thank you, no."

The backwoods woman glared at him. "My Gawd-a-mighty! What's ails you?"

Diane braced herself. "Mrs. Haskel, this is your son, John Herbert, this is your mother."

The girl dared not look at him, but she heard him gasp. Then faintly she heard the word "Mother!"

Ann Haskel sat on her horse, unconcerningly. "I loved you war herb when I first ketchin' sight of you. Growed up to be right smart of a man—fer's height an' weight goes. Favor your paw. But what in hell air you a-doin' hyeah—spendin' the night in the bresh with sich as her?"

Before either John Herbert or Diane could reply excitedly about her from across the creek announced the arrival of Jeff Todd and the men from the Lodge.

Ann Haskel turned to Diane. "This year creek comes from away up in the Big Pine Mountains and draws a bigger watershed than the others," she said, coldly. "Hit war in the Big Pine country that the heaviest rain fell. Hit'll be two or three days 'fore we can get your automobile."

ROSES MUST BE WELL FED

There are few flowers which give the gardener the pride and joy which he gets from growing big, beautiful roses right in his garden. Most home gardeners are pretty happy when the rose bushes produce flowers but wouldn't they be thrilled with joy if they grew twice as many roses? While the type of soil and certain cultural practices are important, one of the biggest factors in successful rose growing is proper feeding.

Roses are recognized as heavy feeders and unless an abundant supply of all of the necessary plant food elements are present in the soil in an available form they cannot make their best growth. Flowers will be small and of poor lasting qualities. Gardeners have long recognized the necessity of feeding roses and many of them developed plans of feeding which gave them good results. Usually the gardener relied on his experience, in deciding when and what to feed the plants.

Now that complete plant food can be purchased at almost any garden supply store, rank amateurs can have the same measure of success in feeding roses as that enjoyed by the experienced gardener. For complete plant food is easy to use. It contains all of the elements plants must get from the soil, and no other plant feeding materials need be used when scientifically prepared complete plant food is used.

If your roses have not produced the number or kind of blooms you expected, try feeding them with a complete plant food this year. Generally speaking, best results will be obtained from complete plant food if 4 pounds per hundred square feet is applied in early spring and then later applications of 2 pounds per hundred square feet are made at intervals of six to eight weeks. It is best to follow the directions which are included in each bag of plant food which you purchase.

BEANS UNTIL FALL FROSTS

String beans are a garden standby, always palatable and welcome, and one vegetable that may be had constantly from early summer until frost shrivels the plants. Getting the beans into the ground at stated intervals guarantees a crop, for anybody can grow string beans and get beans. That is the chief beauty of this vegetable for a beginner in the art of growing vegetables. His skill and energy as a gardener will be measured by the amount of beans he gets from a given planting.

Beans are a warm weather crop and should not be planted until the soil has been fairly warmed and dried, and for the earlier plantings the driest spot in the garden is best, for it will be warmest. String beans are of two sorts, dwarf and climbing, and these in turn in two sorts, green and wax. The choice of the green or wax is a matter of taste. The green sorts now seem to have the call in popularity where formerly the wax kinds were in most demand.

The old orthodox way insisted on planting beans in hills, particularly the dwarf kinds. Now it is the usual and best practice to plant them in rows, thinning to from six to eight inches apart, and larger crops are gathered by giving each plant a better chance to develop than they have when planted in hills of from three to six plants. Plant the beans about an inch deep.

Plant several rows at intervals of ten days or two weeks for succession, continuing up to the first of August. The pole varieties yield more for space occupied, but they must be given support in the way of poles set upon which to twine. They are becoming more popular because of the fact that six hills of pole beans will yield more than a 25-foot row of dwarf beans, and have a longer season.

BEHIND THE SCENES in HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL

Copyright, 1934, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., ...

After drawing up horoscopes, Actor Stuart Holmes goes the Wampus one better and predicts just which ones of the 13 baby stars will win success on the screen.

The former Theda Bara leading man, now a professional astrologist, along with his wife, Blanka

Holmes, picks only two of the aspiring young actresses for certain realization of their dreams. Four others, he declares, will have moderate success and the remaining seven probably will become character actresses.

And, to add a touch of spice, Holmes predicts secret love affairs for six of the starlets.

The two lucky ones, if you are to believe the stars, will be Lu Ann Meredith, from Dallas, Texas, and Katherine Williams, from Seattle, Washington.

The four who can look forward to moderate success are Judith Arlen, from Hollywood; Helen Cohan, daughter of Broadway's George M. Cohan; Jean Carmen, from Portland, Oregon and Lucille Lund from Buckley, Washington. But Lucille's success, says Holmes, will be in the writing instead of the acting field.

Which leaves Jacqueline Wells, Ann Hovey, Hazel Hayes, Dorothy Drake, Gigi Parrish, Jean Gale and Betty Bryson in the consolation spot.

You skeptics may laugh or snort, but the Holmes predictions created plenty of excitement among the 13 starlets, who are all working in B. P. Schulberg's "Kiss And Makeup."

I promised not to mention his name, but they are telling a swell story on a certain Hollywood dance director—and for once it isn't Leroy Prinz. This chap likes his liquor and recently ran afoul of the radio police who nailed him on suspicion of drunk driving. The coppers rushed to the station with their quarry and had him all but locked up when he demanded a sobriety test. And to the amazement and chagrin of the arresting officers, he walked the straight line perfectly.

Opinions of Department of Justice Are Final

tion. All bills which are passed and sent to the Governor for his signature are studied by the department, which advises the Governor of their effect and purposes, to guide him in acting upon them.

To properly carry out all of these varied functions, the department is manned, in addition to the Attorney General, a cabinet officer, by a number of deputy attorneys general most of whom are assigned as counsel for a certain department or phase of legal work.

Seldom if ever, in practice however, does one member of the department decide finally upon any important matter without his determinations having been circulated throughout the department for suggestions and criticisms of the others. Staff conferences are held frequently for this purpose and to keep all hands advised of the work of the others.

The Board of Pardons is located within the Department of Justice. An ex-officio board, its membership consists of the Lieutenant Governor, Attorney General, Secretary of Internal Affairs and Secretary of the Commonwealth. All applications for remission of fines, granting of reprieves, commutations of sentence and pardons are brought before the board, which may hear them and make recommendations to the Governor. The board also has jurisdiction over all paroled convicts.

The only other board in the Department of Justice is the Board of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, composed of three attorneys named by the Governor, and the Attorney General as ex-officio member, which studies ways and means of making Pennsylvania laws uniform with those of other states.

For the 1933-35 biennium, the Department was allocated $778,138, the largest portion of which was for salaries.

Tells Taxpayers How To Lower Government Costs

about office-holders and the cost of government.

"I find that office-holders are as straight as those who elect them to office," Mr. Dripps said. "The high costs of government is not due to the office-holder but to you and I."

"As a result of world conditions, things have really become serious in this country along financial lines. The Federal Government is on a toboggan ride, but it seems to be headed in the wrong direction and is actually approaching the sky. It makes no difference whether you are a loyal supporter of the present administration or not, let me make it plain to you if possible that every cent that is being spent has to be paid back and generations to come will be paying the bill."

"We can pay off this ever-increasing debt by swallowing hard and raising our taxes but our Senators or later they go back to Washington sooner or later will have to abide by the wishes of their constituents and do you think they are going to vote for increased taxes? Do you think it sane to pay off our indebtedness by increasing taxation?"

"If the bill is not paid by taxation, there must be some sort of inflation and if you know anything at all, this system will affect the white-collar man more than anyone else. Inflation affects everybody for that matter and I can speak from experience and tell you that you do not know what hard times are until you live through a period of inflation."

Mr. Dripps spoke of the State government, pointing out that at the last general election the people of Pennsylvania had a real opportunity to go to the polls and express themselves, but instead they actually more than doubled the state debt.

"State leaders are in a quandary to know where the money will come from for the next biennium. Many of our local governments too are bankrupt and many have not paid a cent on their debt for several years and that is close to bankruptcy."

"Let me warn you, however, that it is not economy to cut down on essentials in reducing the cost of government."

The speaker said that in many cases taxpayer units have started out on the wrong foot by holding "fire-works meetings" or by marching on the Court House and making a lot of radical demands without the least bit of knowledge of the actual facts.

"Taxpayers associations are more common than ant-hills, but there are only a few that have gone about the reduction of government costs in the right manner. It is a good thing to organize to get results, but first have your facts before going to the officials. Eliminate the ballyhoo artists."

"The answer to this tax proposition is to organize on a State-wide scale for research. Study your problem and get all the data available and compare it with the cost of government in other localities or counties of the same size. Then go to your officials and give them your assistance and they will certainly assist you."

The speaker told how the association that he represents saved the school district of the city of Harrisburg $75,000 a year as a result of a sensible survey of costs, without the ballyhoo and denunciation of officials.

An invitation to attend a joint meeting of service clubs at George School on June 12, when Lowell Thomas, of New York City, will be the speaker, was extended to Kiwanis members last night.

Announcement was made that a donation of $25 had been authorized by the club to be made to the fund that will be used to secure a fitting memorial to honor the late George Murray. Members were urged to patronize the Doylestown Theatre Guild play for the benefit of the Melinda Cox Free Library to be staged this week in the high school auditorium, and to support the annual poppy sale conducted by the American Legion.

Burgess George S. Hotchkiss, a past president of the Rotary Club, was a guest at last night's meeting.

WASH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Win Back Pep...Vigor...Vitality

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. They should pour out thru the bladder 3 pints of fluid a day which contains 4 pounds of waste matter. If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes need washing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of aching backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, lumbago, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints every day and get rid of 4 pounds of waste matter, your body will take up these poisons causing serious trouble. It may knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS...a doctor's prescription...which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes.

But don't take chances with strong drugs or so-called "kidney cures" that claim to fix you up in 15 minutes. Your common sense will tell you that this is impossible. Treatments of this nature may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS...the old reliable relief that contains no "dope" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist. © 1934, Foster-Milburn Co.

"O, thou merry month complete;
thy very name is sweet!"

THIS being May, we'd like to drop back through history a few hundred years and see the May-pole which James II. (then the Prince of Wales) caused to be erected in The Strand, London.

The king wanted a kingly May-pole... a big one! So the topmost tuft of flowers and ribbons waved from a shaft ten stories high!

But the part we like best about old May Day customs was bringing in the hawthorn blossoms. The young folks did this; starting off "a-Maying" early in the morning through every country lane, they brought back enough branches to deck every house in the village.

There's something about this Maytime that makes us long to bring the Spring indoors. Have you thought yet about crisp ruffled curtains and cool, flower-shaded slip-covers and thin summer rugs, for your own rooms? A cotton bedspread is new pleasure, and just slipping your pillows into print and gingham covers cheers up the indoor atmosphere. Saves fine fabrics from dust and fading too.

So it's pleasant to change dress indoors for Summer and thrifty to take advantage of the many special offerings in the advertisements. The stores have many fresh, novel new things for Spring and prices are surprisingly low.

SHORT CUTS TO THE DINNER TABLE

By Vera A. Schneider

Shall we go right back to the Pioneer woman and her Dutch kitchen at the Art Museum, before I get into the prosaic task of menu planning? I'm going to revisit that old fashioned kitchen very soon, some day when fewer visitors are exploring, and give the fireplace close scrutiny, for I failed to see any oven or baking place, though surely there must have been one, for I'm quite sure those homemakers baked, even though they were handicapped for flour such as our markets afford today.

And too, the spring house was the early American homemaker's refrigerator. She could not make frozen desserts on short notice to serve to family and friends, so let us again congratulate ourselves, and thank science for the marvelous steps that have been taken to give us appliances that are an inspiration in the art of homemaking.

But menus for the week-end must be planned and Dutch kitchens and modern science must be laid gently aside to make room for them.

KNOW THE QUALITY OF SHEET MATERIAL BEFORE PURCHASING

By Rhadenna A. Armstrong
(Home Economics Representative)

Knowledge of quality is needed in buying sheets and pillow slips. With such information it is possible to compare the prices of the ready-made articles with the same amount of yard goods.

Medium or long fiber cotton is used in making the better grades of cotton material. When buying by the yard it pays to ravel out a yarn, break it, and notice its strength. The fibers may be unraveled and the length noted. They should be at least an inch long to give good service. A finely twisted yarn is more durable and stronger. A good yarn is strong, smooth, and even.

Thread count is another important characteristic. This includes the number of yarns per inch both lengthwise and crosswise. If there is an uneven count the material probably will not wear well. A good sheet has a close, firm, even weave. An idea of the evenness and balance of the threads can be obtained by holding the material before a strong light.

There should be few flaws and irregularities in the weave—practically

JEFFERSON A. C. DEFEATS ST. ANN'S; SCORE, 7 TO 4

BRISTOL TWILIGHT LEAGUE
Schedule for Tonight
JEFFERSON vs. DAMP WASH
(St. Ann's Field)

Handing the St. Ann's A. A. nine, a stinging 7-4 defeat, the Jefferson A. C. remained undefeated in the Bristol Twilight League last night. The game was played on Leedom's field.

Ralph Narcisi did the twirling for the Mules and set down the Saints with three bingles. The entire three hits were doubles and came in the pinches to allow the losers to score all their tallies.

The losing hurler was "Charlie" Whyno who was touched for six safeties. Whyno's bad inning was the second when the Mules crossed the plate five times. The Mules did some heavy hitting in this frame, "Lefty" DiTanna connecting for a triple and Charlie Ihrig clouting out a home run.

The Saints put across a rally in the fifth when Narcisi had a streak of wildness but he calmed down after three runs were scored.

HIGH SCHOOL TRACK TEAM SCORES VICTORY

By Jack Orr
The Bristol High Track Team brought their 1934 season to a successful close yesterday on the local high school field, as they turned in an overwhelming victory over the Upper Moreland and Morrisville squads in a triangular meet.

The final tabulations were as follows: Bristol, 42 points; Upper Moreland, 25 tallies; and Morrisville, 13 points.

Bristol gained six first places out of a possible nine. In the second event "Joe" Conti with a throw of 36' 3" won the shot put. Following this Oscar Corn ran the mile and again gained initial place for the Red and Gray.

In the 440 yard dash "Dave" Morse copped another five points for Coach Dougherty and in the 220 yard dash "Hank" Neindorff showed his heels to the rest to win in 22 minutes, 5 seconds.

"Ken" Clifton duplicated his B. C. 1. M. jump in winning the running broad jump with a jump of 18 feet 11 inches.

"Man" Gibson brought Bristol's scoring and the meet to a close by taking the 880 yard dash in the time of 2:08.5.

Beside the six first places Coach Dougherty's boys gained three second positions and one third.

"Jim" Gilin of Upper Moreland won the 100 yard dash in the time of 10.9. Hamford grabbed off Morrisville's only first place in the meet in the high jump with a leap of 5' 4".

Morrisville was greatly handicapped by the absence of three track stars who also play on the baseball nine. They were playing with Morrisville against Langhorne in a Lower Bucks County League game.

100 yard dash—first, Gitlam, Upper Moreland; second, Ross, Bristol; third, Tallferro, Upper Moreland. Time 10.9.

Shot put—first, Conti, Bristol; second, Jensen, Upper Moreland; third, Spurlin, Upper Moreland. Distance, 36' 3".
